Toyota Care

What is Toyota Driveaway Value?

When you buy a new Toyota, you automatically receive Toyota Driveaway Value[^]. This is a value package that includes on-road costs - 1 year registration, full tank of fuel, 1,000km road user charges (if applicable) and genuine floor mats - plus Service Advantage.

With Toyota Driveaway Value, you are covered for up to the first five years of ownership.

What is Service Advantage?

Service Advantage is a value package that has been designed to help you receive the best value during your vehicle ownership.

If you service your vehicle at any Authorised Toyota Store or Service Agent in accordance with the recommended service schedule you will receive:

✓ UP TO 5 YEARS WARRANTY

2 years or 50,000km* Platinum Warranty in extension to the 3 year New Vehicle warranty. This gives you a total of 5 years or 150,000km* warranty.

✓ UP TO 5 YEARS ROADSIDE ASSISTANCE

Whether you experience a breakdown, flat tyre or lock your keys out of the car, you can call the Automobile Association (AA) to help get you and your vehicle back on the road.

✓ UP TO 5 YEARS WOF COVERAGE

Two Warrant of Fitness (WOF) inspections are included in the Service Advantage package. These can be claimed, at an Authorised Toyota Store or Service Agent, at the 3rd and 4th year from your vehicle's first registration date.

✓ UP TO 5 YEARS CAPPED PRICE SERVICE COVERAGE

With Service Advantage, we have reduced the standard servicing costs to a capped price amount for up to the first five years of cover (or 60,000km*). This means you will know exactly how much your servicing costs will be for up to the first five years of ownership. Even if the standard service cost increases during ownership, your capped price servicing costs will not change, regardless of which Toyota store you visit.

Support and service

When you receive your new Toyota vehicle, it's an opportunity to learn about your local Toyota Store's operation, meet the service team and get answers to any questions about your vehicle. It's also a good time to discuss your vehicle's servicing schedule, book your first service and ensure that you fully understand the benefits that come with your new Toyota vehicle.

[^]Excludes Toyota vehicles sold to, or sold as part of Toyota New Zealand's nationally negotiated government or rental sales.

*Whichever occurs first under normal operating conditions

Personalised vehicle care

We believe that owning and running a Toyota should be simple, easy and cost effective. It is a belief that's about taking good care of you as well as your vehicle, with minimum fuss and maximum value.

We'll let you know when your vehicle is due for a service or warrant of fitness. When you're in our store, we'll ask you what your plans are while your vehicle is being serviced, help with collection and drop off and transport options if required.

Pre-service quotes will be provided and if any additional work is needed, we'll contact you before undertaking the work. Then when your vehicle is ready, we'll take you through everything we've done.

Toyota Care gives you a choice of customised options to care for your vehicle and ensures your warranty remains valid. For more information, visit your local Toyota store or toyota.co.nz.

Why choose Toyota to service your vehicle?

As a Toyota specialist your local Toyota store is the perfect place to get your vehicle serviced because we know your Toyota best.

Working with Toyota New Zealand, all Toyota stores have trained their technicians to the highest industry standards, and in turn support them with modern diagnostic equipment, computerised data systems, comprehensive service literature, and advice when they need it from Toyota's own service specialists.

Why choose Toyota Genuine Parts?

Your local Toyota store will use only Toyota Genuine Parts when servicing and repairing your vehicle. This means that every replacement part will have been manufactured with the same precision and quality as the original. It will also be backed by a 24-month, unlimited kilometre parts warranty that includes labour costs (as long as it's been performed by an Authorised Toyota Store).*^

We hold Toyota Genuine Parts in stock, so you won't have to wait too long for yours to arrive. In most cases, a replacement part can be supplied to any Toyota store in the country within 24 hours, and Toyota stores keep supplies of the most commonly required parts at their workshops.

Note: Where a part is replaced under the New Vehicle or Platinum Warranty, the replacement part will have a minimum warranty period equal to the remaining New Vehicle or Platinum Warranty at the time of fitment.

*All replacement Toyota Genuine Part hybrid high voltage batteries are subject to a 160,000 kilometre or 24 month warranty (whichever occurs first under normal operating conditions).

^All replacement Toyota Genuine Part 12 volt batteries supplied by Toyota, if used in a Taxi or similar usage, will be limited to 12 months or 100,000 kilometres (whichever occurs first under normal operating conditions). This does not cover batteries, which have failed due to, but not limited to, normal wear and tear, incorrectly installed accessories and physical damage.

Our servicing approach

Toyota owners use their vehicles in many ways. Some drive only a few thousand kilometres a year, and others drive many thousands. They use them for around-town trips, fast highway driving, caravan-towing and heavy-duty commercial transport, on sealed and unsealed roads and sometimes in extreme off-road conditions.

No matter how you use your vehicle, it will need a range of replacement, inspection and adjustment services during its lifetime. The key to keeping it running smoothly is to ensure it gets the right servicing, at the right time, by the right people.

For this reason, Toyota New Zealand have recommended that the majority of Toyota vehicles' service intervals are every 15,000km or 12 months, whichever occurs first under normal operating conditions.

Your local Toyota store can schedule these services to suit your particular vehicle and the way you use it - checking that it complies with its warranty conditions and continues to deliver safe, reliable performance at the lowest possible cost.

What's more, your local Toyota store will provide extra value by using Toyota Genuine Parts and Toyota-specified oils and fluids. They know how these products work and how long they last, so they can plan their replacement times accurately.

It means you will not waste money on servicing that may not be required, or pay for repairs or breakdowns that could be prevented through timely maintenance.

For more information on your servicing requirements, please read your Service Record booklet in the Owner's Manual wallet, contact your local Toyota store or visit toyota.co.nz.

Remember, the way you use your vehicle is unique to you, so make sure it gets the care and attention it needs by discussing your servicing requirements with your local Toyota store.

A note of caution

Note that other service providers may not have training on, or expertise with, Toyota vehicles and may not use Toyota-approved diagnostic and repair methods and parts, oils and fluids.

Your vehicle's reliability, durability and safety, as well as the validity of your warranty, could be affected by the use of:

- Non genuine Toyota parts
- Non Toyota approved accessories
- The use of parts, oils and fluids specified to lower performance standards than Toyota's (which may need replacing more often and which may not perform as well).
- Servicing performed other than by Authorised Toyota Stores.

Easy ways to care for your Toyota

Mechanical maintenance

To keep your Toyota in peak operating condition, it's important to do some basic mechanical checks on a regular basis. Your local Toyota store will also check them as part of your scheduled servicing programme.

More detailed information can also be found in your vehicle's Owner Manual.

Engine oil level. Under normal driving conditions some oil consumption is to be expected. However, the amount will vary between petrol and diesel engines and the driving conditions*, so we suggest that you check the oil level in your vehicle regularly. To find out the grade of oil specific to your vehicle, read the owner's manual or talk to your Authorised Toyota servicing dealer.

To get a true reading the vehicle should be on a level surface. After turning off the engine, wait for at least five minutes for the oil to drain back into the bottom of the engine, then remove dipstick, wipe it, re-insert it completely, remove it once again and inspect the indicator.

Coolant level. The level in the radiator's see-through reservoir should be between the 'cold' and 'hot' marks. If you need to top it up regularly, the cooling system may have a leak. Have it checked straight away.

Brake and clutch fluid. You might need to top up the liquid as the brake pads wear. Use only new DOT 3- or 4- rated brake fluid from a freshly opened or tightly sealed bottle, as brake fluid can be compromised when exposed to air and moisture.

Windscreen washer level. Windscreen washer additives help to prevent smearing. You should also periodically wipe the wiper blade rubbers with a cloth or tissue.

Oil and fluid stains. Take note of any oil or fluid stains on the ground where you park your vehicle. Contact your Toyota store if you have any concerns. Please note that it is normal for some water from air conditioning condensation to appear on hot days.

Tyre pressures, including the spare. We suggest you check the tyre pressures once a month.

Bodywork care

If you take good care of your vehicle's bodywork, you'll help to protect it against long-term corrosion and preserve the paint and bodywork. We recommend that you:

Wash your vehicle often, hosing it to loosen dirt and film before washing with soapy water[^] and a soft cotton mitt or sponge. Remember to hose the inside of the wheel arches to remove mud, and the underfloor area if you live near the sea or drive in a coastal area.

Check the paint condition often. If you find any stone chips or scratches, touch them up straight away.

Polish your car often enough to maintain a wax 'film' on the paintwork.

When the wax film is adequate, water will stay in droplets on the paint rather than spread over the whole surface.

Inspect your vehicle occasionally for corrosion. If you find evidence of it, contact your nearest Toyota store as soon as possible.

Check the interior. Water spills and dirt can accumulate under the floor and boot mats and, if left, can cause corrosion. Be particularly careful if you're transporting chemicals or fertilisers ensuring that any spillage is cleaned up immediately.

Keep your garage well ventilated. This will allow a wet car to dry out and will minimise dampness.

If you store, or do not use, your vehicle for an extended period of time (i.e. more than a month) we recommend that you contact your Toyota stores service department for advice on any special preventative maintenance requirements.

Use your vehicle on unsealed roads, take precautions to protect the paint from stone damage. We offer a range of Toyota Genuine Accessories that will help, including bonnet protectors, headlight protectors and mudflaps. Just contact your local Toyota store or visit toyota.co.nz.

*For further information on this, please refer to your local Toyota store or your vehicle's Owner Manual.

^Specialised car wash detergents are best.

Other things you need to know

Your vehicle's fuel

Many Toyota models can use 91 octane petrol, while for others 95 or 98 octane is specified. These are the minimum octane requirements, so a higher octane may be used, however it may not provide any performance benefit.

Biofuels have been developed to enable motorists to access more renewable fuel resources and to reduce carbon emissions in the combustion process. They are generally either a blend of ethanol and petrol (for use in petrol engines) or a blend of vegetable oil/ animal fat and diesel (for use in diesel engines).

As a general guide, new Toyota petrol vehicles can use any blend up to E10 (10% ethanol) and new diesel vehicles up to B5 (5% biofuel content) without affecting the New Vehicle Warranty, as long as the blends meet New Zealand's fuel specifications.

To find out the recommendation for your vehicle, check your Owner's Manual wallet or visit toyota.co.nz.

Note: we strongly recommend that you don't use biofuel blend percentages higher than those we recommend, as they can cause performance issues and damage that is not covered by our New Vehicle Warranty or Platinum Warranty Extension.

Diesel fuel contamination

The technology in our diesel vehicles enhances performance and reduces fuel consumption and carbon emissions. However, it relies on clean fuel that meets regulated New Zealand standards - and when the fuel quality falls below these standards (due to contamination from water, diesel bug or other contaminants that can enter fuel station tanks) serious damage can result.

Our New Vehicle and Platinum Extended Warranties don't cover damage to your vehicle from fuel contamination, as Toyota New Zealand has no direct control over the quality of the fuel entering your vehicle. Instead, any fuel contamination is the responsibility of the fuel providers.

To minimise the likelihood of damage from fuel contamination, or to increase the likelihood of compensation from fuel providers and/or insurance companies in the event of damage, we strongly recommend that you:

- Fill at the same fuel station/provider and choose larger or busier fuel stations.
- Keep all fuel receipts in case you need to pursue your fuel provider with a fuel contamination claim.
- Never use petrol in a diesel vehicle, as it can result in engine damage.
- Ask your insurance company whether your policy covers this type of incident - and if not, adjust the policy accordingly.

- Have your vehicle serviced regularly by an Authorised Toyota Store. If correctly followed, our service schedules can help reduce (although not eliminate) the risk of damage from fuel contamination.
- If you cannot guarantee the quality of fuel entering your vehicle, you can fit additional filters as a further precaution. Your Toyota store can advise you on these items, but they will be subject to their manufacturer's warranties.
- AdBlue – currently New Zealand Toyota vehicles do not require AdBlue, and this should not be added under any circumstances. Repairs required as a result of adding AdBlue will not be covered. Seek the advice of your Toyota Store if you have any questions.

Microchipped keys

Most Toyota vehicles are fitted with engine immobilisers. If yours is, you'll be supplied with a selection of keys containing microchips specifically coded to your vehicle.

As these are the only keys that can disarm the immobiliser system and enable your vehicle to be started, we suggest that you store them in separate places. If you lose one, arrange a replacement from your Authorised Toyota Store as soon as possible.

You'll need a master key to create additional keys for your vehicle. If it's not available, your Toyota store won't be able to register new keys, and a new electronic control unit may be required. These units can be costly to replace, and won't be covered by your New Vehicle and Platinum Extended Warranties.

The audio system

The audio units in some Toyota vehicles have a built-in security system, with personalised security codes programmed into them by the owners or your Toyota store. Toyota New Zealand doesn't store or keep records of these codes, which are required to reactivate the units if they lose power.

If your audio unit features a personalised security code, please record the code in a safe place. If you sell the vehicle, give the code details to the new owner.

For more information about the anti-theft protection systems in your Toyota, please read the Owner's Manual or contact your Toyota store.

SUNA Traffic Channel

If Satellite Navigation is fitted to your vehicle it may come enabled with SUNA Live Traffic Updates. To view the terms and conditions relevant to your use of SUNA products and/or services please consult:

Warranty exclusions... what isn't covered?

The conditions of Toyota's New Vehicle Warranty are as generous as possible. However, without limiting your rights under the provisions of the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993, there are some items and situations where the warranty will not apply. These are as follows:

1. Repairs necessary due to the use of other than Toyota Genuine Parts, Toyota Approved Accessories, or the use of fuel, lubricants or fluids not recommended by Toyota.
2. Repair or replacement of any part as the result of normal wear and tear.
3. Repairs or adjustments to normal service items such as but not limited to: spark plugs, wheel alignment, wheel balancing, bulbs, fuses, battery terminals or leads, clutch and brake linings, unless required due to defective materials and/or manufacture.
4. Replacement of lubricants, fuel, filters and cooling system hoses unless required due to defective materials and/or manufacture.
5. Repairs or adjustments not carried out by an Authorised Toyota Store or Service Agent.
6. Repairs or abnormal corrosion resulting from fire, theft, contamination, sand, salt, hail, stones, chemicals, industrial fall-out, negligence (such as the driver ignoring gauges, lights or signals) or other causes beyond the control of Toyota New Zealand or your local Toyota store.

*Whichever occurs first under normal operating conditions.

7. Damage to engine/fuel system by ingestion of incorrect or contaminated fuel. See page 8.
8. Adjustments to body panels, squeaks and rattles after a period of 3 months.
9. Repairs resulting from a failure to maintain the vehicle in the manner specified by Toyota.
10. Repairs resulting from alterations or modification to the manufacturer's original specification or installation of non-standard equipment. This would include such items as (but not limited to) LPG, CNG or other alternative fuel equipment, turbo or super chargers, turbo timers, suspension components, wheels or tyres.
11. Items classified by Toyota New Zealand as being of a non-standard nature will be subject to the respective manufacturer's own warranty. This would include such items as (but not limited to) non-genuine parts, accessories or equipment.
12. Where the vehicle has been used in competition, rallying or racing, or has been subjected to extraordinary use, such as (but not limited to) mining, police, or emergency operation or otherwise damaged by neglect, accident, faulty repairs or improper use.
13. Where the odometer fitted to the vehicle is altered or replaced (except where it has been repaired or replaced under the Toyota New Vehicle, Platinum Warranty, or other Toyota NZ extended warranty) or the odometer drive system has been disconnected or affected in some way causing the odometer reading to not provide a reasonable indication of the distance the vehicle has travelled.
14. Where the manufacturer's identification numbers or marks have been altered or removed.
15. If you are not a consumer (as defined in the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993) or you have purchased this vehicle for a business purpose (and your Vehicle Offer and Sale Agreement contains an applicable exclusion from 'consequential loss' liability) then apart from the benefits provided to you in the event of roadside breakdown or under a Toyota Care Service Plan, this warranty will not extend to consequential loss or damage to either person or property or expenses such as (but not limited to) hire or loss of use, charges, tolls and travelling expenses.
